United Fund Seeks An $84,500 Budget

by BETTY FORRESTER

Arlington Heights United Fund representatives last night took an $84,500 budget request before the Suburban Council of Community Chests zone finance committee.

The proposed allocation for 1969 is up $17,300 from last year's allotment of $67,200. "As we look back at our operation," George C. Beacham, who worked out budget details, said prior to the hearing, "we achieved 103 per cent of our goal last year."

He explained that the local group had aimed at raising $50,000 of the total allocation locally, with the remainder to come from the Metropolitan Crusade. Actual figures showed local funds raised of more than $51,000 last fall.

Funds for the new budget will be raised this fall.

Beacham was to have been accompanied at last night's hearing by United Fund Pres.

James Mason and United Fund Vice Pres. Gordon Glorch.

INCLUDED IN the Arlington Heights proposal is $79,600 for agencies and $4,900 for local administration. The 1968 budget had included $63,800 for agencies and $4,400 for local administration.

The Arlington Heights plan allows $15,200 to the Boy Scouts, $7,200 to the Girl Scouts, $6,500 to the Camp Fire Girls, $1,500 to the Arlington Heights 4-H (a new United Fund agency) $12,500 to the Salvation Army, $750 to U.S.O., $700 to Arthritis Rheumatism, $7,700 to the YMCA; $12,500 to Clearbrook School; $1,000 to Kidney Disease; $3,000 to the Northwest Co-operative Mental Health Clinic; $800 to Cystic Fibrosis and $9,950 to Arlington Health Services.

The Arlington Health Services figure is further broken down with $2,500 going to heart research, $2,500 allocated for cancer research, $1,000 for cerebral palsy research, $1,000 for multiple sclerosis research, $1,000 for leukemia research, $1,000 for muscular dystrophy research and $950 for the Northwest Community Hospital Free Bed fund.

TWO AGENCIES now included in United Fund have requested to be left out in 1969, Beacham said. These are the Mental Health Society of Chicago and Goodwill Industries.

The mental health group has a new statewide funds campaign and Goodwill will be funded from another part of the over-all metropolitan crusade.

The allocation requests local groups bring before the zone finance committee in these hearing will be reviewed and possibly revised before presentation to the suburban council's finance committee on May 1. The allocations are then ruled upon by the council's board of directors.

In early June, the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy Board of Trustees (on which the suburban council holds 10 out of 30 seats) meets to accept allocation requests from the suburban council, the Chicago Community Fund and the Mid-American Chapter of the Red Cross.

Arlington Heights United Fund will learn about its allocation on or about July 1.

COLLISION COURSE ON 156 ACRES?

A court fight looms over a Chicago developer's plan to snatch a 156 acre unincorporated tract from the Arlington Heights sphere of interest and annex it to Buffalo Grove.

Atty. Alvin Kornfeld intends to use a small piece of land north of Dundee Road as a wedge to bring the area east of the Arlington Heights Industrial Park into Buffalo Grove.

The small wedge of property, listed as belonging to Leona Hupp and adjacent to Buffalo Grove village limits, will be used as a legal tool to drag the rest of the section from Arlington Heights jurisdiction.

The proposed 156-acre development will include 32 acres of apartments and a 10-acre business section. The builder will also donate a 12½-acre site along Arlington Heights Road as a public use area.

KORNFELD, representing a trust held by the Exchange National Bank and Chicago Title and Trust Co., insists he cannot build profitably under the Arlington Heights village code.

The Arlington Heights Village Board Monday directed Village Atty. Jack Siegel to file suit in the Circuit Court to oppose the annexation.

Siegel told the Herald he examined the petition Tuesday and will base his case on deficiencies he uncovered. The hearing will probably come up April 25. After a decision is reached in the Circuit Court, the loser can appeal to the Appellate Court.

Atty. for the trust, Howard Borde, says the village of Arlington Heights cannot argue that Dundee Road is a natural Arlington Heights boundary because the village has annexed land north of Dundee Road, including the sanitary landfill, part of the industrial park, and the Stavros Three Lakes Golf Course and Subdivision.

SINCE ARLINGTON has extended its boundaries north of Dundee, Buffalo Grove has a right to go south of Dundee, Borde argues.

Siegel says he does not believe Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove will become involved in any legal action at this time.

Siegel says the developer's objections to the Arlington Heights code "doesn't bother other people." Arlington Heights has led the Northwest suburban area in building year after year because their code protects the people, Siegel said.

At this time, Buffalo Grove officials have not been informed of Kornfeld's plans to annex to their area.

"These developers feel they can put up less desirable units outside Arlington Heights," Village Mayor John Woods told the Herald. "I have no doubt that they can."

WOODS QUOTED author John Ruskin, saying, "There is no product that some other individual cannot make in a less desirable way and sell cheaper."

Woods says the village is taking legal steps to see that the development is consistent with Arlington Heights standards.

"We have gone to great trouble to build a first rate community and we deplore speculators who would piggy-back on our established quality," he asserted.

Woods said he did not know the names of the individuals involved in the trust, nor did he want to know them.

"I'm opposed to it if it's my mother!" he said.

Phone Strike Threatened

Approximately 6,200 Illinois Bell Telephone Co. operators will strike tomorrow if the company and the Communication Workers of America fail to reach a wage agreement.

Gene Montgomery, community relations manager for Illinois Bell, says service will be slightly below normal in the Arlington Heights area, but supervisory personnel will be pressed into service to get calls through.

The strike will primarily affect long-distance service requiring an operator's attention.

Approximately 60 to 70 operators in Arlington Heights will be on strike. They will be joined by plant men and installers working from the Arlington Heights office.

MORE THAN 165,000 operators and 300,000 Bell Telephone employees across the country will be affected by the strike.

The operators voted to strike April 12 but postponed their walkout because of the riots throughout the country in the wake of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King.

According to Montgomery, the CWA has been offered the largest wage hike in Illinois Bell history, a 7.5-cent-an-hour increase on a graduated scale.

The union is asking approximately 18.8 cents an hour on a graduated scale.

ARTHUR LEFEVRE, vice president of the Michigan-Indiana-Illinois contingent of the CWA, says representatives of union and management are trying to reach agreement in Washington.

Since Bell Telephone is 99 per cent controlled by American Telephone and Telegraph, final settlement will be reached between AT&T and the New York operators. The other regions will follow with local settlements.

LeFevre, who returned Monday from Washington-based negotiation sessions, says, "Some progress has been made but there is no agreement yet."

LeFevre told the Herald that CWA believes the telephone operators should receive wage boosts similar to those paid by the auto industry, the airline industry and the rubber workers.

Productivity has increased 7½ per cent each year per employee while wages have increased 4 per cent per employee, LeFevre says.

The union also is asking for a 10 per cent raise in overtime pay for evening work and improved pay for overtime and holiday work.

Rights Bill 'A Step Toward Solution,' Rumsfeld Says

by HELEN PARMLEY

U. S. Rep. Donald Rumsfeld (R-13th) declared that the newly passed U. S. Civil Rights bill "won't open a broad highway from the ghettos to the suburbs, but it will make this a stronger and healthier nation."

Speaking to the 16th annual Easter Luncheon in Glenview Monday, the congressman departed from the traditional "Report From Washington" to speak out about civil rights and relationships of the individual to his society, to bring mixed reactions from his audience.

Republican women from the 13th Congressional District heard their congressman thank his constituents for the thousands of letters he received concerning this issue.

He told the group that letters in 1966 seemed to lack an appreciation of the problems of civil rights, but this year they were different.

RUMSFELD SAID, however, that some letter writers felt that the bill violates property rights, and he agreed that it does. But he pointed out that the law does not take effect until a public offering of the house is made.

Some writers, he explained, insisted they would be harassed by having to defend themselves against nuisance suits, and he agreed that there probably would be "some" who might have to do this.

However, the congressman said that in voting in favor of the bill's passage he had voted his "concern and conviction, regardless of race or creed or economic circumstances."

"This bill will help the Negro school teacher who answered over 100 ads for housing in the community where she had obtained a good job for which she was qualified," he stated.

Decision at Hand On Superintendent

The Arlington Heights Dist. 25 school board is close to a decision on whom their new superintendent should be — but may not be ready to make the announcement at tonight's 7:30 p.m. meeting.

Further conversations about men the board is considering were scheduled by Board Pres. Robert Bukowski for this morning.

Bukowski seems likely to head the board another year.

THE SCHOOL board will officially reconstitute itself with one new member, Robert C. Bates of 1317 E. Campbell, following canvassing of votes from Saturday's election.

The unofficial totals show

Bates and Ted Seiler, an incumbent seeking a second three-year term, won out over independent challenger Ronald Gasser.

Before canvassing the votes, the old board will finish business held over from an April 8 board session.

Still on the docket are consideration of the proposed building budget for 1968-69 and approval of summer school plans.

The building budget proposes $622,600 be spent for maintenance of school grounds and buildings during the coming year.

Some $436,000 was budgeted for non-educational expenditures by the school board during 1967-68.

Villagers Honor Dr. King

They Marched, Then Talked

by MARY SCHLOTT

Opportunity to learn what else they can do drew 140 Arlington Heights villagers to stay on after Monday night's memorial march and church service honoring slain Negro rights leader Martin Luther King Jr.

Development of church and private financing for Negro housing in the suburb was the strongest suggestion for action made at the meeting which followed.

The Clergy Fellowship of Arlington Heights sponsored the memorial service, and supported the Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee's sponsorship of the silent march which preceded it.

Some 260 villagers, led by Village President John G.

Woods, marched two abreast the six blocks from the Municipal building on South Arlington Heights Road to the memorial service in the First Presbyterian Church on North Dundon Avenue.

Policemen held back Northwest Highway traffic as the procession crossed Northwest Highway.

THE MARCH crowd included many ministers, and dozens of topcoat clad commuters. Numerous teenagers and children walked with their parents.

One man carried a sign that said, "A Black Man Died for Our Sins in Memphis, Tenn."

At the memorial service for Dr. King an audience of 350 was told by State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, "Too few of us pursue a dream in an attempt to make it come true and with such dedication."

King's dream, he said, of "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness for all without regard of the color of a man's skin," is one Arlington Heights residents are willing to share.

"By your presence, we near another fulfillment," Schlickman added, "There is hope."

SCHLICKMAN was one of two laymen who spoke at the meeting. The other was Lawrence Jenness, principal of Forest View High School.

Jenness, Rev. Joel Henning of St. Simon's Episcopal Church, and Rev. Robert McDonald of St. John's United Church of Christ read prison writings of King, German minister Dietrich Bonhoeffer, who was executed at Hitler's order for his opposition to Nazism, and St. Paul the Apostle.

At the meeting that followed the worship service, three persons urged a special effort be made to make Arlington Heights homes available for rent or sale to Negro families.

One of them, a woman, argued "We could have low-cost housing here. We could have public housing out here and this is what we should have. We have the room."

A TEENAGER, Mike Dreser, repeated the warning of Floyd McKissick of the Congress on Racial Equality that non-violence is dead, and said that the white community must ac-

Propose New Site

To placate Berkley Square homeowners who have objected to a barnyard in their front yard on the north, the Arlington Heights Park Board last night conditionally accepted a 5½-acre alternate site in the subdivision's back yard on the south.

The farm buildings from the property on the north would be relocated to a triangle of land to the south of the subdivision, southwest of the Rand Junior High site and north of the Commonwealth Edison Co. right-of-way.

The park commissioners generally were agreed that the site was a better one than the land directly adjacent to Edgar Allen Poe School that had been originally planned for a small farmyard exhibit.

The Berkley Square association March 25 presented the board with a petition signed by 247 residents opposed to the farm zoo, and the idea of using the northern parcel was finally dropped.

Traffic Controls Possible At Hersey

High School Dist. 214 Monday night leaned toward traffic controls at Rand Road, rather than redrawing boundary lines for Hersey High School in response to parental criticism of efforts to send children from Miner Junior High School to Hersey.

The board deferred final action on the problem, but it requested more information on an underpass or overpass on Rand Road south of Hersey.

It also requested a further investigation of paid bus service for students living less than 1½ miles from the school. Students less than that distance do not qualify for free bus service.

A WEEK AGO, about 40 angry parents from the area south of Hersey demanded the review, charging that the shift from Miner to Hersey for a small percentage of children would tear them away from their companions and would subject them to traffic hazards on Rand.

Monday night, the board said it had rechecked the measurements to the school, and still only a small portion of the children transferred could qualify for free bus service.

Dr. Frank Smith, board president, mentioned paid bus service after relocation of students had been informally ruled out.

"I'd hate like heck to have a school with no students," he said in reference to relocation,

Elston Dist. 23 President; Two New Members On Board

J. Donald Elston, 103 Drake Terrace, was elected president of the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board at annual reorganization proceedings Monday night.

Elston, who has been on the board since November, 1965, succeeds Robert W. LeForge, 1105 N. Maple Lane, president since 1965.

Two new faces were in evidence among board members Monday night. S. Bruce Wallace and Melvin A. Lace were named to three year school board terms by district voters at Saturday's annual school board election.

They replace David Dresser who chose not to seek a second term, and Patrick Treacy, a one year board member who bid for a three year seat and was defeated.

Wallace, running as an independent after having been dependent caucus support, tallied 111 votes, according to the official election canvass held Monday night. Wallace is an employee of Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

LACE, ENDORSED BY the caucus, garnered 133 votes. He is an electrical engineer and a member of the Wheeling Plan Commission.

Treacy, also running with caucus support, came in third in a field of five aspirants. He totaled 99 votes, 12 short of the second place tally.

Edmund Spitzig Jr. tallied 51 votes and Roy E. Willis totaled 74. Both had caucus endorsements. There was one write-in vote for Alvin Krinsky.

Only 242 residents of the school district voted in the school board election.

Before adjourning the Monday night session sine die in anticipation of the reorganization, LeForge told board members he "personally enjoyed working with each and every one of you as your president. I have enjoyed working with Pat Treacy and having him with us and it is with some sorrow that I bid him adieu. I want to thank him publicly for the work he has done and also the rest of you over this past year."

TREACY, BEFORE leaving the meeting, said he had also "enjoyed working on the board very much. The associations I've made will be long remembered. I would like to commend the winners, Melvin Lace and Bruce Wallace, but I also want to encourage the losers, especially Mr. Spitzig and Mr. Willis. They were fine candidates and I hope they continue to show their interest in the board and support it and will run for election again. In the case of an incumbent, the message is a little clearer, but I congratulate the winners and encourage the losers."

LeForge felt that Treacy's words should include himself also, and told him "I do not consider the number of votes cast as an overwhelming majority. Those who voted made their wishes clear. Of that there is no doubt. However, not too long ago there was a sanitary district election at which 1,150 people voted. Don't feel too discouraged. This is not an overwhelming mandate of the community."

Elston, after accepting the presidency, appealed for help and support of the other board members, "if we are to continue to have a good school system in Dist. 23. I particularly need the help of Mr. Wallace and Mr. Lace. This will be a crucial year."

"We are faced with a new superintendent and a year from now three people on the board will perhaps no longer be board members. Their terms are expiring. Continuity is important to have a good school district and I look forward to your help."

THE BOARD then unanimously elected attorney Henry Valley to be secretary for the coming year at a monthly salary of $150. Elston noted that Valley was "the only facet of continuity we have around here and we look forward to your direction and help in the coming year. We are going to need it."

Board members agreed to continue their committee-of-the-whole meetings on the first Monday of every month and the regular board meeting on the second Monday of the month. Both sessions will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the library at MacArthur Junior High School, Palatine and Schoenbeck roads.

Elston then passed out committee assignments for the coming year, naming Roy Weinberg to chair the building committee and to take over Treacy's work on policy. LeForge will head a new long range planning committee; Mrs. Maureen Sandstrom will continue in her position as chairman of public relations; Mrs. Martha Koelsch will remain as chairman of the salary and evaluation committee.

WALLACE WAS named to chair a committee on site acquisition and development. He will work closely with LeForge on long range planning and with the Prospect Heights Park District, and the Arlington Heights Park District if necessary, for development of the sites at the John Muir School, Oak Street and Drake Terrace, and for the new school to be built at Elm Street and McDonald Road.

Lace will chair the finance committee and although Elston admitted it was probably a surprise to give a new board member such a responsibility, the president noted that "we learn by doing."

He assured all committee chairmen that the other board members are members of all committees which actually operate as committees-of-the-whole.

Magnolia, Clarendon

Village Won't Act On Vacating Streets

The Arlington Heights Village Board rejected the recommendations of its legal committee Monday and refused to vacate Magnolia Street from Highland to Ridge.

Legal committee chairman Frank Palmatier voted against his own motion to abandon the street when fellow board members convinced him Magnolia Street would be needed in the future.

"I am opposed to the vacation of streets except under unique circumstances," declared Village Pres. John Woods.

The board also quashed the request of several homeowners on Clarendon Street to vacate that street between Highland and Ridge avenues.

THE MAIN reason the homeowners objected to Clarendon was the expected $43,000 price tag on an assessment to pave the street.

"The question is not the cost of the street, but the principle of vacation," Trustee John White insisted.

Sidewalks already are present on Clarendon Street, convincing board members that homes in the area were built to use the Clarendon facilities.

"We have spent a disproportionate amount of time considering this street," said Woods. "I agree with the recommendation of the legal committee."

TRUSTEE George Burlingame, who lives at the corner of Chestnut and Clarendon, cast the only vote favoring vacation of Clarendon.

The board also refused to vacate 72 feet of Clarendon leading to an intersection with Kenicott, and turned down the vacation of the 300 block of Marion Street.

No homeowners interested in the Marion Street vacation appeared at the meeting.

The board left the question of assessment and improvement of Marion Street to the Board of Local Improvements.

"BOLI can smoke out the interested parties," said Woods.

Apartments Are In, Street Vacating Out

After spending two hours Monday night debating the principle of vacating streets in four areas of Arlington Heights, the village board rejected all the vacations and proceeded to attack 23 more agenda items before 11:30 p.m.

Included in the slam-bang action were approval of the Charles Matthies 104-unit apartment development south of Central Road and West of Ridge Ave; approval of Hollywood Builders "Stonebridge" apartment development on north Rand Road; approval of an addition of more apartment units to the Brandenberry apartments on Camp McDonald Road; and approval of preliminary plans for the Ryan-Trapani Chantclair subdivision on Algonquin Road west of Arlington Heights Road.

THE PROBLEM of where to locate a swale that could ruin plans for a service station on the Ryan-Trapani Commercial property will be worked out in committee.

The board also accepted a bid of $245,785 for a one-million-gallon Hydro-Piller for installation in the proposed new fire station at Golf and Arlington Heights Road within the next 18 months.

The board, then, approved two small subdivisions in Arlington Heights, the Murray lot between Kensington and Campbell streets east of Windsor, and the Parchim lot between Hawthorne and Frederick on Beverly.

A REQUEST TO subdivide several large lots in the Industrial and Research center into smaller and more saleable lots was also approved by the board. The request of Kenroy, Inc. developers of the park, to move Kennicott Ave. west of the present site in order to preserve a complete 80-acre parcel was approved.

The board also hurried to allow developer George Wallach to change his present apartment zoning in the Park Manor subdivision to single-family homes. Homeowners in the Park Manor area had protested Wallach's apartment plans.

ISBC To Buy New School Utilities

Supt. Louis Pansino last week told the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board that the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC) will pay the cost of bringing off-site utilities to the new school site at Elm Street and McDonald Road.

The building will be built by the ISBC and leased by the district for 17 years at an annual rate not to exceed $30,000 per year. Voters in the district approved the project at a special election held in November, 1967.

Pansino said he had talked to John Moore, executive director of the ISBC, who agreed "to pick up the cost" if the bids come in at the same time the construction bids are opened.

Combo Entertains At Clearbrook School

The "49th Street Detour" combo, under the supervision of Ves Duro, played Saturday evening at Clearbrook School for the Retarded for a "Spring Happening."

The "Spring Happening" was a party for deaf teen-age children and their parents, to get acquainted with prominent deaf leaders such as Dr. McCay Vernon and wife; Dr. Eugene Mindel and wife; Dr. Harry Easton and wife; J. B. Davis, president of the Illinois Assn. of the Deaf, and wife; Frank Sullivan, president of the National Fraternal Society of the Deaf, and wife; Mr. and Mrs. Len Warshawsky; Mr. and Mrs. Al Van Nevel; Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Strom, and Phil Kerr, deaf consultant with the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation.

THE HAPPENING, which included the live music and a buffet supper, was sponsored by a group of parents who are learning sign language and finger spelling to further communication between themselves and their children. This class of parents of the deaf is taught by Mrs. Raymond Munro, S. Mitchell, Arlington Heights.

Also, a dancing school for the deaf was announced. This six week introductory course for the deaf children will begin May 5 and end June 9, and will be taught by Mrs. Bonnie Wesorick, 1109 E. Kensington, Arlington Heights. Parents of interested deaf children should phone 259-2498 to register their children.

The ISBC, however, Pansino said, reserved the right to charge tap-on fees to other persons wishing to connect to the system at a later date.

JUST WHERE the utility connections will be made will be left to the recommendation of Hooper Engineering of Palatine who conducted a feasibility study on the costs and methods of bringing utilities to the site.

Hooper in his report to the board recommended the school district request the Village of Arlington Heights to furnish sewer and water to the site.

Hooper felt water could be obtained by an extension of existing Arlington Heights mains from McDonald Road and Dale Avenue to Schoenbeck Road at a cost of about $13,000 including the engineering fees.

Sanitary sewers to service the 17 classroom building, Hooper felt, would also be most economical by connecting to existing Arlington Heights mains near McDonald Road and Dale Avenue.

This, he felt, would involve a lift station and a pressure main from the school site and would cost an estimated $25,000.

Hooper is expected to make a firm recommendation before a decision is rendered by the board. The engineering company will also contact the Old Town Sanitary District whose boundaries include the new school site.

THE LOCAL sanitary district has no facilities at the moment and it could be some time before they are able to service the site with sanitary sewers.

A $900,000 bond referendum to provide funds for such a project was defeated at the polls March 23. Water service was not included in the proposal.

Cost of the off-site work will be approved over and above the $437,000 ISBC appropriation for school construction, equipping, and site development.

Specifications for the building, Pansino said, include utilities to the corner of the property at Schoenbeck and McDonald Roads. The off-site utility project would continue from that point to the point of nearest possible connection.

THE UNOFFICIAL tallies run this way:

—At South, Seiler received 231 votes, Bates got 195 and Gasser 79.

—At Miner Junior High School Seiler received 261 votes, Bates had 246 and Gasser 203.

—At Thomas 124 votes were cast for Seiler, 133 for Bates and 117 for Gasser.

Two of the three Dist. 25 candidates also drew write-in votes on High School Dist. 214 ballots.

The high school district reported a total of 61 write-in votes, including seven for Gasser and four for Bates.

Supt. Hopeful Gets Travel $

A move to reimburse travel expenses for a candidate for superintendent in Prospect Heights Dist. 23 was approved by the school board Monday night but only after it had been challenged by board member Roy Weinberg.

Robert LeForge, former board president, said he had received a letter from a candidate living in Bloomington, Ill., noting mileage of 268 miles for the round trip to be interviewed by the school board screening committee.

"Since the board agreed to pay expenses," LeForge said, "I move we reimburse the candidate at 10 cents per mile or $26.80."

Weinberg claimed the provision for reimbursement for travel expenses "was not a board decision" but LeForge said it "was custom previously."

NEW BOARD Pres. J. D. Elston agreed it was "customary. The committee took it for granted, in fact discussed it, to pay expenses because there would be no one coming from any great distances such as California.

"It was not discussed at a board meeting," Weinberg reiterated and LeForge claimed it was mentioned "in the letter to be sent to various candidates and that letter was approved by the board."

Weinberg still claimed the letter did not come before the board of education for approval and new board member S. Bruce Wallace asked that minutes of previous meetings "be pulled since there is a question about it."

The motion was tabled until Business Mgr. Gene Kucharski went for the minute book which showed only that the screening committee to find a new top administrator was named at the Feb. 12 meeting. Minutes of the March 11 meeting noted that letters had been sent out to candidates and state and county school officials. There was no mention of reimbursement of travel expenses in either set of recorded minutes.

The motion to reimburse was then brought up for a decision and was passed unanimously on a roll call vote.

How Dist. 25 Candidates Scored — By Precincts

Precinct-by-precinct breakdown of voting in Saturday's Arlington Heights Dist. 25 school board election shows that independent Ronald Gasser did best in his home territory on the village's north side.

Balloting at Thomas Junior High School put Gasser within seven votes of Theodore Seiler, an incumbent school board member bidding for a second term.

Winners Seiler and Robert C. Bates, the other man endorsed by the Dist. 25 nominating committee, made their best showing at South Junior High School.

Beautification Unit Launches Fund Campaign

The Arlington Beautification council (ABC) will take to the streets April 26 to tell residents of its purpose and to solicit donations to help support its activities.

A small booklet will be distributed, telling of the council's achievements and goals and asking for a contribution of $1 or more.

Beautification of the Chicago and North Western right-of-way has been the group's major project to date. Most of the funds for grading and for the planting of shrubs have come from the village government, but the ABC also has contributed its own, privately donated money to the cause.

School Caucus' Effect on Village

by MARY SCHLOTT

Unspoken question in the just-completed Arlington Heights Dist. 25 school board election was the effect defeat of school caucus candidates might have on next year's upcoming village elections.

Though it was seldom mentioned out loud, both sides in the school election drew support from persons who had next year's municipal elections in mind.

Independent challenger Ronald Gasser received backing from a number of Arlington Heights politicians who would like to see the village caucus go down to defeat next year.

They pitched the campaign toward building more general suspicion of caucus operations, a mistrust based largely on ignorance of how both the village caucus and the Dist. 25 Nominating Committee work.

Endorsed candidates Ted Seiler and Robert C. Bates benefited, in return, from quiet support from villagers who have a stake in seeing the village caucus continue to win elections.

Though unsolicited support came from both parties, the GOP support was stronger. It reflected the village Republican leadership's recognition that demise of the village caucus would require them to step in directly to fill the political power gap, with chance of the step backfiring eventually. One put it succinctly: "If we had GOP candidates at the local level, every time someone couldn't get a stop sign put in he'd blame 'those darn Republicans.'"

In the end, however, the results can only be considered inconclusive. Caucus backers might be tempted to conclude that Gasser's bid for "offering the voter a choice" had no appeal. The truth is that most Arlington Heights residents were more interested in their plans for Easter.

There are other conclusions, however, that leaders of both the village caucus and the Dist. 25 Nominating Committee should draw from the past few weeks.

The chief is that most Arlington Heights residents don't really understand how both semi-political conventions operate.

It's not difficult to understand why. Since John G. Woods was last elected, we've grown by about 20,000. Continual explanation of any locally unique procedures for finding candidates for office are a must.

Village Caucus and school Nominating Committee leaders should also take great pains to continually stress that they, too, see their nomination process as no substitute for an election. It only insures that at least one qualified man is offered for each job.

The public should understand that any group that chooses to nominate candidates for election has the right to operate in any way it chooses.

Both the Nominating Committee and the village Caucus have every right to put up just one candidate for each position, as both do now.

Rather than just carping, critics might do better to form their own de facto nominating force—and subject that procedure to the same close public scrutiny that both the village and school nominating committees face as a routine.

Township GOP committeeman Eugene Schlickman must have been discouraged by the results of last Thursday's meeting for Sheriff Joseph Woods and county jail warden Winston Moore. Schlickman had set up the meeting before Chicago's civil turmoil in an effort to spotlight need for jail reforms. He is strongly opposed in his own way to the sheriff's simplistic approach to solving urban problems.

The way to handle looters, the sheriff hardened, is to shoot to kill. Don't wound them or you'll have to spend time dragging them off. Such advice is not only inhumane but stupid, for many of the thefts were carried out by children—and what mother or father would stop until they saw justice done to someone who shot down their child?

Yet the sheriff was applauded. It indicated to what depth white racism infects our own communities.

Negotiator School Interests Dist. 23

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board is considering sending someone to a negotiators training school to be held May 8-10 at the Holiday Inn in Joliet.

The Illinois Assn. of School Boards in co-operation with the Illinois Assn. of School Administrators has arranged for the School Management Institute to plan and conduct two training sessions dealing with recommended procedures for negotiators in Illinois.

The second training session will be held May 22-24 at the Holiday Inn East in Springfield. BOARD MEMBERS Mrs. Martha Koelsch, Patrick Treacy and J. D. Elston Monday night expressed an interest in sending someone from the Prospect Heights schools to the Joliet session. Supt. Louis Pansino also considered the training school a "worthwhile" enterprise and felt perhaps a board member and a staff member should attend.

He recommended that a decision be postponed until after the election. Board Pres. Robert LeForge asked Pansino in the meantime to sound out faculty members who might be willing to attend.

Tuition for the three day session is $100 per enrollee plus travel and living expenses. The class is limited to 60 persons.

Inevitable -- Erlenborn

The U. S. Congress and DuPage County would have passed civil rights legislation and resolutions even without the mounting pressures resulting from riots, violence, looting, arson and the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King.

That is the gist of what Cong. John Erlenborn has been trying to tell his DuPage and Will County constituents.

And his opinion has been embraced by members of the DuPage County Board of Supervisors, who adopted a civil rights resolution last week. The resolution had been scheduled for a vote April 9, after its introduction on March 26.

"We did not need the recent rash of riots to convince us that there is unrest in our cities," Erlenborn reiterated this week as public opinion sought furtive motives behind last week's Congressional civil rights action.

"The Negro probably will meet American business standards of competence and ambition if he has an incentive—such as freedom to travel, to entertain, and to live in a good neighborhood," Erlenborn said.

"It is with that . . . in mind that I voted for the Civil Rights Act."

HE SAID he believes the problem lies "in the friction which always has existed between the rich and the poor," since Negroes comprise 10 percent of the population but a much greater proportion of the nation's poor.

"All the experts and most of the non-experts agree that we can move in the direction of urban tranquility only when the Negro has total equality and total freedom," according to Erlenborn.

He rapped the administration's program of federal aid to education, "which isn't really helping poor districts much," and called for block grants to states to improve the quality of basic education.

"THAT'S WHAT poor kids need," he said.

He also cited a proposed adult education bill and a college work-study bill which had been under study by the Education and Labor Committee, of which he is a member.

He blamed President Johnson for slow progress in exploration of these programs until January, when in a manpower message to Congress, the President conceded:

"Make-work programs of the 1930's are not the answer to today's problems. The answer, I believe, is to train the hard-core unemployed for work in private industry."

Erlenborn said that message finally described the jobs program which Republicans have been advocating since 1963.

HE ALSO CITED Sen. Charles Percy's proposed National Home Ownership Foundation as what may turn out to be "the best anti-riot weapon of all."

Erlenborn began in March to urge a civil rights compromise which would be acceptable to a majority of members of both houses in Congress.

He said he was dismayed last month by the "prospect of a blanket acceptance by the House of the Senate-passed civil rights bill."

But, he said, this would be better than to delay legislation until King and his anticipated Poor People's March arrived in Washington, D. C.

"UNLESS Dr. King and his marchers conduct themselves with utmost decorum, I expect they will turn votes away from their cause," Erlenborn mused three weeks ago.

In his opinion, a vote to delay the civil rights bill by sending it to conference would have been a vote against civil rights.

"I am reluctant to vote for the conference because I believe we must do what we can to equalize opportunity in this country."

"This bill is not wholly to my liking, but then, few bills are. I like the direction of this bill. It does little to help the slovenly, but intends, instead, to help the ambitious man," Erlenborn said then.

AGAIN ON April 5, the day after King's death, Erlenborn announced he had joined 20 Republican colleagues in a letter urging House approval of the civil rights bill.

He said he had reservations about the Senate amendments to the bill, but, "I came to the conclusion that these reservations are less important than enactment of a good civil rights bill."

cept the militance of the black community.

Presbyterian layman Curtis Kenyon argued for making opportunities for church members ("and some of them would not be caught dead in a meeting like this") to talk their way to an understanding of their Christian responsibility to equal opportunity.

Other persons urged that local schools teach Negro history.

WHEN ONE woman demurred, saying this could be done in church-sponsored Saturday classes rather than in public school, another countered with, "You would only get the children of people who are committed. The bigots wouldn't send theirs."

"You have to talk to the guy next door who ridiculed you when you flew your flag for King," added Hank DeGroh. DeGroh will meet this week with Catholic Interracial Council director John McDermott to seek support for distribution of black and white flag lapel pins as a brotherhood symbol.

The AHEAD (Arlington

Heights Ecumenical Activities and Discussion) committee of the Clergy Fellowship had arranged for other specific suggestions for action to be made.

THESE CAME from:

—Gilbert Tierney, Arlington Heights Human Relations Committee president, who said that the committee is planning soon to publish a multi-signature Martin Luther King memorial advertisement and will host an interracial potluck supper in May.

—Mrs. Robert Chaney, who is area chairman for Friendly Town, a program that makes it possible for inner city youngsters to spend a week or two vacationing in suburban homes.

—Mrs. William Trevor, president of the League of Women Voters, which is spearheading efforts to form a task force to raise funds so the Northwest Opportunity Center can continue its work with Spanish-speaking suburban low-income families.

—Rev. James Eby, heading AHEAD efforts to develop programs to further suburbanites' understanding of urban problems.

U. S. Act Broadens Local Board Role

Arlington Heights Real Estate License Review Board will soon face larger responsibilities than anticipated when its five members were named a few weeks ago.

Congressional action makes them the initial investigating body for any complaints filed locally under the new federal fair housing provisions of the new civil rights act.

Both of the state's senators and 13th District Rep. Donald Rumsfeld voted for the act, which provides for step-by-step coverage of the housing sales and rental market.

The federal act goes far beyond the broker-only provisions of the Arlington Heights law. The village ordinance forbids discrimination by real estate agents. The federal law also makes it illegal for the individual homeowner to refuse to sell or rent on basis of race or religion.

The new federal act immediately forbids any discrimination in sale or rental of federally-financed or federally-assisted housing.

By next January it will cover all new home developments and all apartments except one-, two-, three- and four-flats that are owner-occupied.

Beginning in 1970 it will forbid discrimination in the sale of any single-family home sold through a real estate agent.

The law requires that complaints of discrimination filed with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development be referred to a local or state agency for initial investigation in any municipality or state that has a fair housing law.

Since the federal fair housing law permits accusers to file suit against an alleged discriminator on their own behalf in federal court (and collect both legal costs and damages if successful), the local agency will act only in an advisory capacity though its findings may carry considerable weight.

Because of the increased scope of responsibility that the village licensing review board will assume in assisting in implementing the new federal law, Arlington Heights trustees may want to take another look at the manner in which it is constituted.

Trustees should consider whether our local open housing ordinance should be revised to increase the review board's size.

In doing so, the village board may also want to consider whether the local ordinance should be broadened.

This is already under consideration in Evanston, whose ordinance provided the pattern for our own real estate sales regulation law.

The federal law, in its step-by-step provisions, will cover some Arlington Heights housing now but will not cover all single-family homes sold on the public market till 1970.

Trustees may wish to consider whether it would be wiser, in a community consisting primarily of family-owned homes, to take local action to cover all dwellings on the same basis from the start.

2 Keep Non-Paid 214 Jobs

High School Dist. 214 re-elected Dr. Frank Smith as president and Richard Bachhuber as secretary Monday night following the district's uncontested board election Saturday.

Bachhuber and Mrs. Leah Cummins won 2,527 and 2,454 votes in their uncontested "races."

Bachhuber and Smith have served in their posts for the past year. The board met informally before Monday night's meeting to determine who was interested in holding the non-salaried positions.

The board, after it had approved the canvass of votes and elected officers, approved an application for federal assistance for a program for handicapped children.

The program would consist of a summer development workshop for handicapped children. The program would be developed through the office of the state director of the federal program.

Cowboy singing star and town official Robert O. Atcher will serve as auctioneer for a Friday benefit auction planned by the Wheeling Township Young Republicans.

Proceeds of the 8 p.m. auction at the VFW hall, 801 N. Yale, Arlington Heights, will go to State Rep. Eugene Schlickman's campaign fund.

Young Republicans have spent weeks collecting items for the fund-raising affair.

Atcher's auctioneer chant will offer for sale, among donated items, autographed books from Congressman Donald Rumsfeld, Rumsfeld aide Bruce Ladd, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Presidential candidate Richard Nixon.

THE LOOT also includes antique tables and a chest, a snowblower, golf clubs and a first day cover letter from Gov. Otto Kerner announcing the Illinois Sesquicentennial celebration.

Atcher, Schaumburg's village president and an unsuccessful Republican primary candidate for state senator in 1966, volunteered to do the auctioneering honors after the professional auctioneer who had agreed to serve had to back out because of illness.

The search for a substitute made the Easter holidays challenging for auction co-chairmen Ron Horstman of Prospect Heights and Dwight Walton of Arlington Heights.

The team has a ticket sales goal of 400, and hopes to raise $2,000 for Schlickman's fund from the auction and ticket proceeds.

The auction is open to the general public.

Tickets at $2 apiece will be sold at the door. They also may be received by calling Mrs. Walton at 392-9415, Mrs. Jack Walsh at 255-7377, the Horstmans at 827-8797, Mrs. Gustafson at 392-6320 or Mrs. Charles Toot at 392-3186.

Pickup of donated items may be arranged for by calling Mrs. Toot, Mrs. Gustafson or Mrs. Walsh. The three women are co-ordinating the collection effort.

In the Suburbs

A Negro's Search for a Home

Commr. Jack Homer of the Elk Grove Human Relations Commission has written a three-part series describing the problems Negroes face in their effort to find homes in the northwest suburbs.

This series uses real names and presents real situations.

First in a Series

Cephus Johnson wants a home for his family. There should not be any problem.

He has a good job and makes an excellent living. He has other assets. Appearance, education, polish—they are all in his favor.

But Ceph, his wife and daughter live in a rented townhouse in Chicago because he could not buy a house in the Northwest Suburbs.

The Johnsons are Negroes.

Ceph is a sales representative for the Ortho Chemical Division of the Chevron Chemical Corp., Des Plaines. He and his wife Elouise are native Californians. He went to Sacramento State College. She attended Sacramento City College.

WHEN CEPH finished school, he played professional baseball. He was a first baseman in the New York Giants AAA chain. Eventually, he gave up baseball and went to work for Chevron. Last year, he was transferred to the company's regional sales office in Des Plaines.

Ceph and Elouise were happy about the transfer. It meant opportunity. But it also meant eight months of living in a cramped kitchenette apartment near O'Hare Field while they tried unsuccessfully to buy a home.

They looked in Elk Grove Village, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and other suburbs. No one threatened them physically. At 31, Ceph is an athletic 6-foot 1-inch, 195 pounder. He is just too big to push around.

But real estates offices suddenly had no listings or had to close in the middle of the afternoon. Houses worth $20,000 miraculously appreciated to $40,000.

CEPH SAID, "It was almost funny. I would walk into a real estate office with my wife and 2-year-old daughter. I don't think we are particularly frightening, but the people reacted like a tank had just crashed through the wall."

Many real estate brokers and home owners expressed sympathy. Some said they would like to sell to the Johnsons. The problem was always "the neighbors" or "my clients" who would disapprove of the sale. Ceph noted:

"I would liked to have met the people who thought our moving in would have been such a tragedy. But they were never around."

Twice, the Johnsons found reasonably attractive homes which they could buy. Both times, the sales were strangled in red tape from banks. Once Ceph called a bank to arrange a loan. His speech is free of stereotype Negro syntax and pronunciation. Over the telephone, he is white.

When he went to the bank, the embarrassed manager suddenly discovered there was no money available for mortgages "for the rest of the year." That was in May.

IMPOSSIBLE stipulations were also used to stop loans. One bank said it would be happy to make the loan. But Ceph's company had to be co-signer on the mortgage.

"If it wasn't the owners, it was the brokers, Ceph said. "If we got these problems worked out, it was the banks. I started out to buy a nice used home because you can get a better value. Also, we needed the house quickly. Of course, it didn't work out that way. We were all under a great deal of strain."

"Finally, we just got tired and moved into Chicago."

The Elk Grove Village Human Relations Commission thinks the Johnson's experience is unfortunate. Also, it is absolutely unnecessary. It has proposed a fair-housing ordinance to see that it does not happen in the future. In spite of the passage of similar statutes in nearby communities, this ordinance could meet with heated opposition.

Fourteen suburbs around Chicago have passed fair-housing laws and many more are in some stage of enacting them. Someone is going to sell Ceph Johnson the home he wants. He may be free to buy in Elk Grove Village. He may not.

But what kind of a community would turn down a good first baseman?

Youths Take Over Village Government

High school seniors from St. Viator, Forest View, and Arlington High School will take control of the Arlington Heights village government next week.

The takeover will not be accompanied by water cannons or picket signs. The overthrow of the village "establishment" is temporary, as it is part of Arlington Heights' fourth annual youth week.

The takeover will begin on Monday, April 22, when selected seniors from the three local high schools will watch the village board in action at 8 p.m.

ON WEDNESDAY, April 24, students will watch the zoning board of appeals in action, and on the following night, students elected to the Plan Commission and the Board of Local Improvements will watch BOLI function.

The takeover will be complete on Friday, when students hold mock village board, BOLI, and zoning board of appeals sessions. This will follow a tour of the municipal building and a chance for the students to meet their real-life counterparts.

The students will lunch at Old Orchard, and tour the United Air Lines facility at O'Hare. They will be back at school by 3 p.m. The men they replaced — Pres. John Woods, Village Mgr., L. A. Hanson, Police Chief, L. W. Calderwood, and others — will again assume control of Arlington Heights.

Negotiator School Interests Dist. 23

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board is considering sending someone to a negotiators training school to be held May 8-10 at the Holiday Inn in Joliet.

The Illinois Assn. of School Boards in co-operation with the Illinois Assn. of School Administrators has arranged for the School Management Institute to plan and conduct two training sessions dealing with recommended procedures for negotiators in Illinois.

The second training session will be held May 22-24 at the Holiday Inn East in Springfield.

BOARD MEMBERS Mrs. Martha Koelsch, Patrick Treacy and J. D. Elston Monday night expressed an interest in sending someone from the Prospect Heights schools to the Joliet session. Supt. Louis Pansino also considered the training school a "worthwhile" enterprise and felt perhaps a board member and a staff member should attend.

He recommended that a decision be postponed until after the election. Board Pres. Robert Le-

Forge asked Pansino in the meantime to sound out faculty members who might be willing to attend.

Tuition for the three day session is $100 per enrollee plus travel and living expenses. The class is limited to 60 persons.

5 St. Viator Students Injured In Car Accident

Five juniors from St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights were injured Saturday night when their car hit a light pole at the intersection of Rts. 62 and 59.

Dave Erfort, the driver of the car, and Dick Aylward, Marty Wendell, Jack Brawley and Jim Druding were taken to Sherman Hospital in Elgin with facial cuts.

Brawley and Aylward are now at Northwest Community Hospital.

All five boys are in good condition.

PICTURE TUBE TIPS
by ED LANDWEHR

Keep sunlight and strong light bulb rays out of your TV picture screen. The sun can dissipate the phosphor on the face of the tube. And strong bulb rays cause you to drive the tube harder in order to get a good viewing picture.

Be sure the area around the TV set is well ventilated and, if it isn't, use a small electric fan to move the air.

Picture tubes are pretty rugged and shock proof to some extent, but constant vibration from a nearby motor or street vibrations can cause a TV picture to wear out quickly.

LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights handles a first line, latest type of picture tube with full guarantees. Your viewing will probably be better than when your set was new. Phone Clearbrook 5-0700.

Charcoal and Sand On Sale April 27

Depleted supplies of sandbox sand and barbeque charcoal may be replenished beginning April 27, when the Arlington Heights Jaycees begin their annual spring drive for funds to support Clearbrook Center for the Retarded.

The sale will continue until May 18, with charcoal sales being made directly from a railroad boxcar located just east of the intersection of Euclid and Northwest Highway, and orders for sand being taken by phone.

The number to call for sand between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. is 255-6151. If the telephone company should be struck by workers, Jaycee spokesmen say another number will be used to take sand orders.

THE FINE-GRAIN, mortargrained sand will sell for $1.50 per single wheelbarrow load, $1.25 per barrow for two to four loads, and $1 per barrow for five loads or more. The Jaycees also will deliver sand in larger quantities. Deliveries will be made on Saturdays only.

The charcoal goes for $2.95 for the 40-pound bag and $1.50 for the 20-pounder. The barbeque fuel is all high-grade hardwood variety, the Jaycees hasten to assure the choosy buyer. Charcoal will be sold between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays from the boxcar.

Last year the Jaycees were able to raise $2,100 for Clearbrook and this year they hope to double that amount.

Annexation Okayed; Development Waits

The Arlington Heights Board of Trustees decided Monday to submit the first land development touching the proposed McDonald Creek lake to committee scrutiny.

The trustees approved annexing the 80-acre Meister-Neiberg property on the east side of Buffalo Grove between Hintz and Palatine roads, but postponed granting an okay to preliminary plans on developing the land.

The board decided it was too late at 11:15 p.m. to give the

Planners Study Westgate Zoning

The Arlington Heights Plan Commission will meet tonight to consider a request to rezone an 80-foot strip south of the Westgate Shopping Center from single family to business use.

REZONING OF the strip will allow further business development in the Westgate area.

The Plan Commission also will hear plans to build a nursing home at the Northwest Medical Center, 1420 N. Arlington Heights Road.

promising 239-lot residential development enough detailed attention.

"THIS COULD be one of the finest residential areas in the community," said trustee John White. "We don't want to hamper development, but we do want to study it."

The developer must make final financial arrangements by June 9 and the board promised to give the plans speedy attention.

Meister-Neiberg, Inc., developers of Ivy Hill, have reduced their original request for 260 home sites to 239 because part of the property falls within the area of a proposed lake suggested in the Schaeffer water study.

Joseph Ash, attorney for Meister-Neiberg, told the board his client would dedicate eight acres in the northeast section of the property for lake development.

A committee composed of trustees White, Roy Bressler, and George Burlingame will study the proposed development.

Custodial Salaries Discussed

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 school board met in executive session after the regular board meeting last week to discuss custodial salaries.

The board is negotiating with the Building Service and Employees Union, to which the custodial employees belong.

Chamber Elects Heller Director

Robert Heller of the Heller Lumber Co. was elected a director of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce last week to fill the unexpired term of Ken Tucker, who resigned the post.

Also elected to fill a resignation-created vacancy was Barney Erickson of Krause and Kehe Realtors. Erickson will fill the seat vacated by Robert Leudtke of Bell Telephone, who has been promoted and transferred by that company.

Reid Completes Traffic Course

Officer Richard R. Reid of the Arlington Heights Police Department recently completed a three-week course in Traffic Law Enforcement conducted by the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

The purpose of the course is to provide specialized training in principles and techniques of effective traffic law enforcement.

Parks Council Meets Thursday

The Arlington Heights Parks Advisory Council will meet Thursday at the Slichenmyer Administration Center on Kensington Road in Mount Prospect at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The council session will be an open forum during which the views of all interested citizens will be heard.

Town Auditors Meet Tomorrow

Elk Grove Township's board of auditors will meet at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Township Hall on Arlington Heights Road.

This is the regular monthly meeting of the board.

At Northwestern

Claudia Eby, 102 S. Kennicott Ave., Arlington Heights, is one of six undergraduate students who have distinguished themselves as interpreters of literature and drama at Northwestern University.

Miss Eby has recently appeared in The Reeling Hour presented in Fisk Hall on the Evanston campus.

Brochure Tells Fraud Protection

Atty. Gen. William G. Clark has issued a brochure to safeguard Illinois consumers from fraud and deception.

The pocket-size booklet, available to the public free of charge, lists many of the new consumer protections provided by a series of new laws, which became effective Jan. 1, 1968.

Explained, for example, is the new three-day "cooling off" law, which allows the buyer three full business days in which to cancel a contract on unsolicited door-to-door sales of $50 or more.

THE BOOKLET cautions buyers against other fraud techniques.

Clark also lists other protective buying tips relating to contracts, oral agreements and sale "lures" and explains where and how to get help if the consumer suspects he has been defrauded.

The booklets are available from William G. Clark, Consumer Fraud Division, 160 N. LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

'Communicator' Is Withdrawn

Telephone facilities providing tape recorded message on affairs in Dist. 23 will be removed in action approved by the Prospect Heights school board last week.

Removal of the Communicator, installed on a three-month trial basis, was recommended by board member Patrick Treacy on the basis of messages currently on the tape. Treacy said they were obsolete. "I have called eight or ten other times and they were also outdated," he said.

A message counter which was to have been installed with the equipment never was connected and so the number of calls to the recording could not be substantiated.

TREACY SAID it was his "personal observation that the communicator is not effective in this district at this time" even though he could not substantiate its usage.

Treacy, Roy Weinberg, J. D. Elston, and Mrs. Martha Koelsch all approved the motion to remove the equipment. Mrs. Maureen Sands'rom approved it "with regret" and board Pres. Robert LeForge, an employee of Illinois Bell Telephone Co., passed. Dave Dreser was not present for the session.

Highway Maps Now Available

More than 1.75 million 1968 official highway maps now are available free of charge to motorists, Francis S. Lorenz, director of the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings, announced.

Individual requests for maps should be addressed to the Division of Highways, Springfield, Lorenz said.

The maps will be distributed by local chambers of commerce, newspapers, municipal and college libraries, motor clubs and similar organizations.

THE 1968 MAP is printed in two sections. The first section is devoted to the Illinois Sesquicentennial with scenic photos and shows highways throughout the state.

The second section labeled the "City Map Supplement" contains expressway systems located in the Chicago and East St. Louis areas as well as individual maps of many larger Illinois cities.

A limited quantity of other maps are on sale to the public. These maps, prepared for use of the Division of Highways, include certain types of state, county, and city maps.

They can be obtained by writing the Division of Highways, Room 130, Administration Building, 2300 South 31st St., Springfield, Ill.

Lawyers' Respect For Judges Shown

The Northwest Suburban Bar Assn. celebrated its annual Judges' Night last Wednesday at the Des Plaines Elks Club, reported William Moore, president of the Assn.

The annual affair was conceived as a means of showing the respect and appreciation held for the judges by the practicing attorneys in this area. The more than 100 in attendance enjoyed an excellent dinner and benefited from the comments of several of the judges.

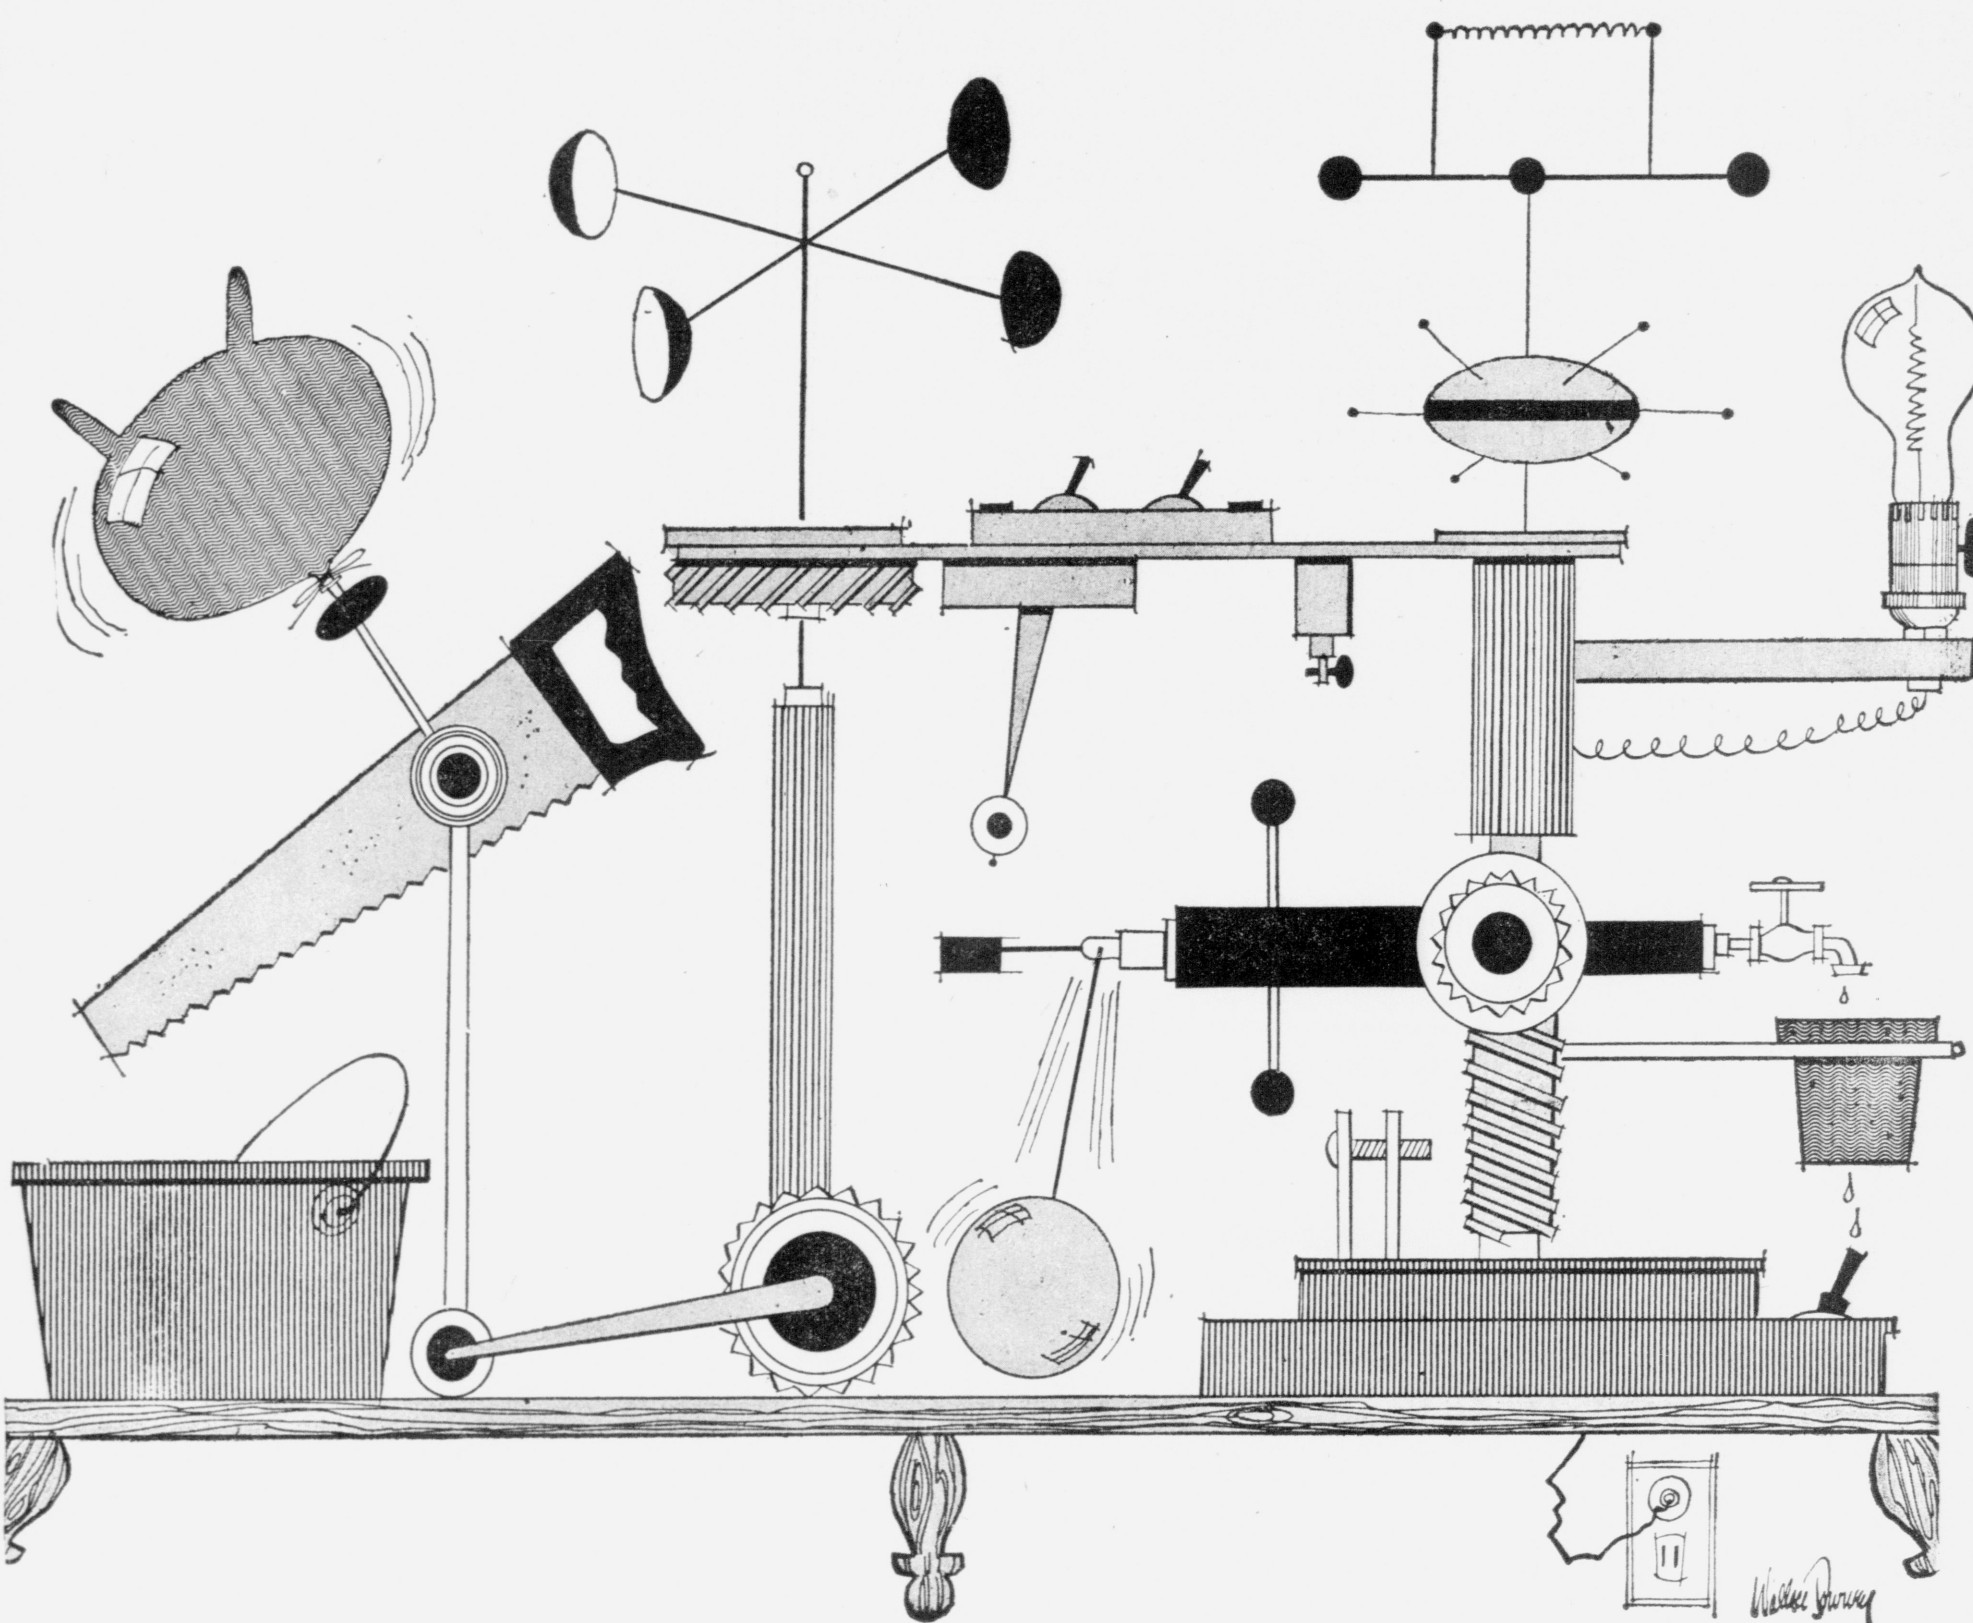

Anton A. Smigiel, presiding judge of the 3rd Municipal District, offered a few suggestions on procedures which would improve the administration of the courts to the ultimate benefit of our citizens.

OTHER SPEAKERS included Judges Walter P. Dahl, presiding judge of the Juvenile Division of the Circuit Court of Cook County, and Thaddeus V. Adesko of the 1st District Appellate Court sitting in Chicago.

Preparations for Law Day 1968 were reviewed by James S. Sheldon, chairman of this year's program. Members were also told to circle May 25 on their calendars for the spring dance to be held at Park Ridge Country Club.
